To protect or serve: Sheriff faces difficult choice in ‘American Rust’

By Kyla Brewer

TV Media

As the television universe expands with access to seemingly endless streaming series, one-off specials and feature films, a few programs stand out as ones to watch, with brilliant casts and riveting source material. One such series examines the decline of small-town America against the backdrop of a murder investigation.

Two-time Emmy winner Jeff Daniels (“The Newsroom”) returns to prime-time television as Del Harris, the police chief of a struggling steel town in southwest Pennsylvania, in “American Rust,” premiering Sunday, Sept. 12, on Showtime.

Emmy nominee Maura Tierney (“The Affair”) co-stars as Grace Poe, the woman trying to convince her co-workers at a dress factory to join a union. In love with Poe, Harris faces a difficult choice when her son, Billy (Alex Neustaedter, “Colony”), is accused of murder.

The nine-episode series is based on the novel of the same name by acclaimed writer Philipp Meyer, winner of the Los Angeles Times Book Prize for First Fiction. This is not the first TV adaptation of one of Meyer’s books; in 2017, his novel “The Son” was adapted for the small screen as a western drama starring Pierce Brosnan (“Golden Eye,” 1995) for AMC.

Billed as a “compelling family drama” in an official Showtime release, the project has actually been in the works since 2017, when it was announced that USA Network had given it a straight-to-series order. Unfortunately, plans for the show fell through at that time because producers couldn’t find the right leading man. In 2019, however, the project was revived for Showtime with Daniels as both the star and an executive producer.

The project reunites Daniels with Oscar nominee Dan Futterman (“Capote,” 2005), who has signed on as an executive producer, writer and showrunner. The pair previously worked together on the 2018 Hulu miniseries “The Looming Tower,” which earned four Emmy nominations. Showtime Networks President of Entertainment Gary Levine had high praise for the duo in an official release and

WHAT’S NEW ON NETFLIX
“Sex Education” — Season 3
Get down and dirty with another new season of the cult-favorite British comedy-drama “Sex Education,” landing on Netflix this Friday, Sept. 17. The third installment of the series sees the return of everyone’s favorite characters, but it doesn’t pick up exactly where Season 2 left off (even though it ended on quite a cliffhanger). The cast has grown up some and developed some new attitudes, but Otis (Asa Butterfield, “Ender’s Game,” 2013) and his friends will continue their hilarious, heartwarming and awkward adventures through puberty, with Otis’s sometimes-too-open sex therapist mom, Jean (Gillian Anderson, “The X Files”), helping along the way. From creator and writer Laurie Nunn (“Radience,” 2013), this BAFTA Award-winning series also stars Ncuti Gatwa (“The Last Letter From Your Lover,” 2021), Emma Mackey (“Eiffel,” 2021), Connor Swindells (“Emma,” 2020), Kedar Williams-Stirling (“Shank,” 2010), Aimee Lou Wood (“Uncle Vanya,” 2020), Alistair Petrie (“Rogue One,” 2016) and Tanya Reynolds (“Emma,” 2020).

WHAT’S NEW ON PRIME
“Y: The Last Man” – Season 1
Experience London’s West End from the comfort of your own home on Friday, Sept. 17, when the hit musical “Everybody’s Talking About Jamie” makes its screen debut on Prime. This contemporary coming-of-age story, with music by The Feeling’s front man Dan Gillespie Sells (known for “Fill My Little World”) and lyrics and story by Tom MacRae (“Doctor Who”), is a joyous and life-affirming musical experience. The story follows 16-year-old Jamie New (played by screen newcomer Max Harwood) as he overcomes adversity, beats prejudice and steps into the light as a drag queen. With the support of his loving mother, Margaret (Sarah Lancashire, “Happy Valley”), and an amazing group of friends, Jamie has the chance to grow into his happiest, most authentic self. Directed by Jonathan Butler (“Finding Neverland,” 2004), this musical film adaptation also stars newcomer Lauren Patel, Richard E. Grant (“ Gosford Park,” 2001), Sharon Horgan (“This Way Up”), Shobna Gulati (“Coronation Street”), Ralph Ineson (“The Witch,” 2015) and Samuel Bottomley (“Ghost Stories,” 2017).

WHAT’S NEW ON DISNEY+
“SparkShorts: Nona” (2021)
Disney adds another brand-new short to its SparkShorts lineup this Friday, Sept. 17, when “Nona” lands on Disney+. Designed to discover new storytellers, find new ways of telling stories and encourage creative production processes, Pixar’s SparkShorts program gives Pixar employees six months and a limited budget to create new animated shorts. Creator and director Louis Gonzales has worked for Pixar for decades, working on family classics, including “The Iron Giant” (1999), “Ratatouille” (2007) and “Brave” (2012), to name a few. Now, Gonzales brings Disney the latest SparkShorts installation, “Nona”: a story based on his grandmother. When all Nona wants to do is unwind for the day with her favorite wrestling show, she must decide between her pastime and her other favorite distraction, her 5-year-old granddaughter, leading to a loving showdown and a happy compromise. The film is produced by Courtney Casper Kent (“Coco,” 2017).

Murphy, FX announce more spinoff series and seasons

By Michelle Rose
TV Media

More ‘Stories’: Ryan Murphy’s (“American Horror Story”) TV empire just keeps growing, and that’s great news if you love a good horror story, a sports-related one and/or a tragic love story (or just any good story, really).

It was announced last month that FX on Hulu opted to renew Murphy’s “American Horror Story” spinoff, “American Horror Stories” (note the plural), for a second season. According to FX, the freshman anthology series was the most successful series to launch since FX on Hulu rolled out last year. Expect Season 2 to debut in 2022.

That’s just the tip of the iceberg for Murphy and producing partners Brad Falchuk (“American Horror Story”), Nina Jacobson and Brad Simpson (both of “American Crime Story”). There are also two new spinoff series in the works: “American Sports Story” and “American Love Story.” And if you have a soft spot for the sounds and fashions of the disco era, “American Love Story” is planning to return with a Studio 54-themed fourth season.

According to FX, “American Love Story” will highlight “the sweeping true love stories that captured the world’s attention,” and the first installment promises to be a dissection of John F. Kennedy Jr. and Carolyn Bessette’s romance. According to the plot synopsis, “What started out as a beautiful union for the young couple, widely regarded as American royalty, began to fray under the stress of the relentless microscope and navel-gaze of tabloid media. The pressures of their careers and rumored family discord ended with their tragic deaths when his rumored family discord ended with their tragic deaths when his

Ryan Murphy, seen here with his Emmy Award, to launch two new series

Ryan Murphy, seen here with his Emmy Award, to launch two new series of the best and most indelible programs of our generation, most notably “American Crime Story,” which created a brutal partnership between Ryan [Murphy], Brad [Falchuk], Nina [Jacobson] and Brad [Simpson]. Their alchemy and the way in which they construct these stories is done with such care, such clarity and such dimensionality that it creates the magnificence that is ‘The People v. O.J. Simpson,’ ‘The Assassination of Gianni Versace’ and ‘Impeachment.’ We can’t wait to see what comes next.”

And neither can we.

Morticia Zeta-Jones: Catherine Zeta-Jones ("Prodigal Son") has joined the cast of Tim Burton’s ("Edward Scissorhands," 1990) "Addams Family" Netflix series. Set to play the role of iconic matriarch Morticia, her status as guest star is an indication that her character won’t be front and center during the live-action series’ eight-episode run.

"Wednesday" is a mystery with a supernatural twist (it is a Tim Burton project, after all). It centers on Wednesday Addams’ (played by "Yes Day" (2021) star Jenna Ortega) attempts to master her emerging psychic ability, thwart a monstrous killing spree that has terrorized the local town, and solve the supernatural mystery that embroiled her parents 25 years ago — all while navigating her new and very tangled relationships at Nevermore.

Zeta-Jones will play opposite Luis Guzman ("Shameless"), who stars as Addams family patriarch Gomez. Given that Nevermore Academy is a boarding school, that explains why Zeta-Jones and Guzman are playing supporting roles in this one, though it’s an interesting on-screen pairing.

No word yet on when "Wednesday" will land on Netflix.

Burgess and ‘Annie’: The Hollywood Reporter was the first to break the news that "Unbreakable Kimmy Schmit’s" Titus Burgess has joined NBC’s live musical production "Annie Live," set to air Dec. 2.

The six-time Emmy nominee will play the role of Rooster, the underhanded brother of cruel orphanage headmistress Miss Hannigan (to be played by "Empire’s" Taraji P. Henson, the first major star to be confirmed). "I’ve always wanted to be a villain," Burgess said of his role, and he certainly will be in “Annie Live." His character escapes from jail and plots with his gold-digging girlfriend to get rich. Rest assured, despite all of these nefarious goings-on, the antagonists will still find the time to belt out the biggest musical number, "Easy Street."

In a statement, Henson paid tribute to the comedy legend who originated the role on the big screen: "Carol Burnett, who brought Miss Hannigan to life in the classic 1982 movie, is someone I have studied and idolized as far back as I can remember. So when the opportunity came to me to join NBC and this incredible group of producers, I jumped. Carol, I hope to do you proud."

Singer/actor Harry Connick Jr. ("Hope Floats," 1998) is set to star as billionaire Sir Oliver "Daddy" Warbucks, while Pussycat Dolls singer Nicole Scherzinger will play the role of Grace, Warbucks’ assistant/chief of staff.

As for the titular role, NBC opted to hold virtual open auditions to find their Annie, who has to have "an excellent voice with a strong high belt, great comedic timing and excellent dance skills," and can presumably hold their own next to her celebrity co-stars.

‘Halloween Baking Championship’ returns with new theme

It’s that time of year — a time when you don’t know whether to enjoy the beginning of fall or skip ahead to the candy extravaganza that is Halloween — and Food Network isn’t making it any easier by rolling out some big Halloween-themed programming this week.

A popular staple this time of year, “Halloween Baking Championship” is back for a seventh spooktacular season beginning Monday, Sept. 13, and the season- al competition show is apparently turning the fear factor up a notch.

Comedian John Henson (“My Name is Earl”) is back to host this season after missing Season 6, which saw Carla Hall (“Top Chef”) — a fixture since “Halloween Baking Championship” debuted in 2015 — lead the show as both judge and host. Henson is a viewer favorite, but Hall is still a big part of Season 7, back as a judge, alongside pastry chefs Stephanie Boswell (“Christmas Cookie Challenge”) and Zac Young (“Unique Sweets”). They’ll be the ones determining the winner of the $25,000 grand prize and the title of “Halloween Baking Champion.”

In the first episode, the initial group of 10 contestants will be introduced to viewers, to Henson and to the judges. The competition begins with a trip to “Camp Devil’s Food Lake,” where they have to bake up some “cereal killer” pies and mega cakes that will impress the judges if they want to survive … the elimination round, that is (it’s a Food Network/family-friendly show, after all). The remaining contestants will continue to the next round and the Sept. 20 episode, which involves “creepy through a haunted house? Well, this season the weekly challenges pay tribute to classic 1980s slasher movies — think “Friday the 13th” (1980) and “Nightmare on Elm Street” (1984) — and that should make for some pretty interesting costumes worn by the host and judges each week.

Don’t miss the season premiere of “Halloween Baking Championship,” airing Sept. 13 on Food Network and discovery+, and head over to FoodNetwork.com to find some of the recipes featured on the show.
